MACROSCOPIC DESCRIPTION

Navona White Travertine is a splendid natural stone characterized by a beautiful ivory color and darken veining, a versatile and elegant material, suitable for many types of different applications. Extensively used already in Ancient Rome for building purposes, travertine is a marble easily recognizable thanks to the porous surface and little holes, visible in any cut orientation.

Navona Travertine or Navona White is a type of travertine particularly precious, thanks to its light color that gives luminosity and elegance to any setting; that is why Navona White Travertine is mainly used in interiors with classic or modern designs, an elegant and stylish choice.
