

TRAVERTINO ROMANO CLASSICO

Colour: Beige

Macroscopic description: Travertine is a precious stone with an alveolar structure, used since ancient times to build and embellish public and residential structures, piazzas and churches amongst which are also important monuments as the Colonnade of St. Peter's Square in Vatican City, the Basilica itself, Trevi Fountain and the fountains of Piazza Navona in Rome.

Roman Classic Travertine is characterised by a neutral beautiful background in ivory, sometimes varying from almost white to hazelnut and light caramel, makes it the perfect natural stone for interior and exterior applications. Suitable for modern and more traditional designs and applications, Roman Classic Travertine is a very versatile stone that, thanks to its durability and resistance to many weather conditions, is perfect in any context and design scenario as gardens, public and private parks, exterior designs and many more.
