MACROSCOPIC DESCRIPTION

Moleanos marble is a natural precious stone extracted from Portuguese marble quarries. Its color may vary from light creme with darker cloudy shadings and light brown veining to bluish beige with light dotting of darker color, a material suitable to many kinds of different applications, for both interior design and exterior projects.

Azul Moleanos variety, as the name says, is characterized by a beige background with greyish and blueish shadings, an original and elegant material with a strong personality.

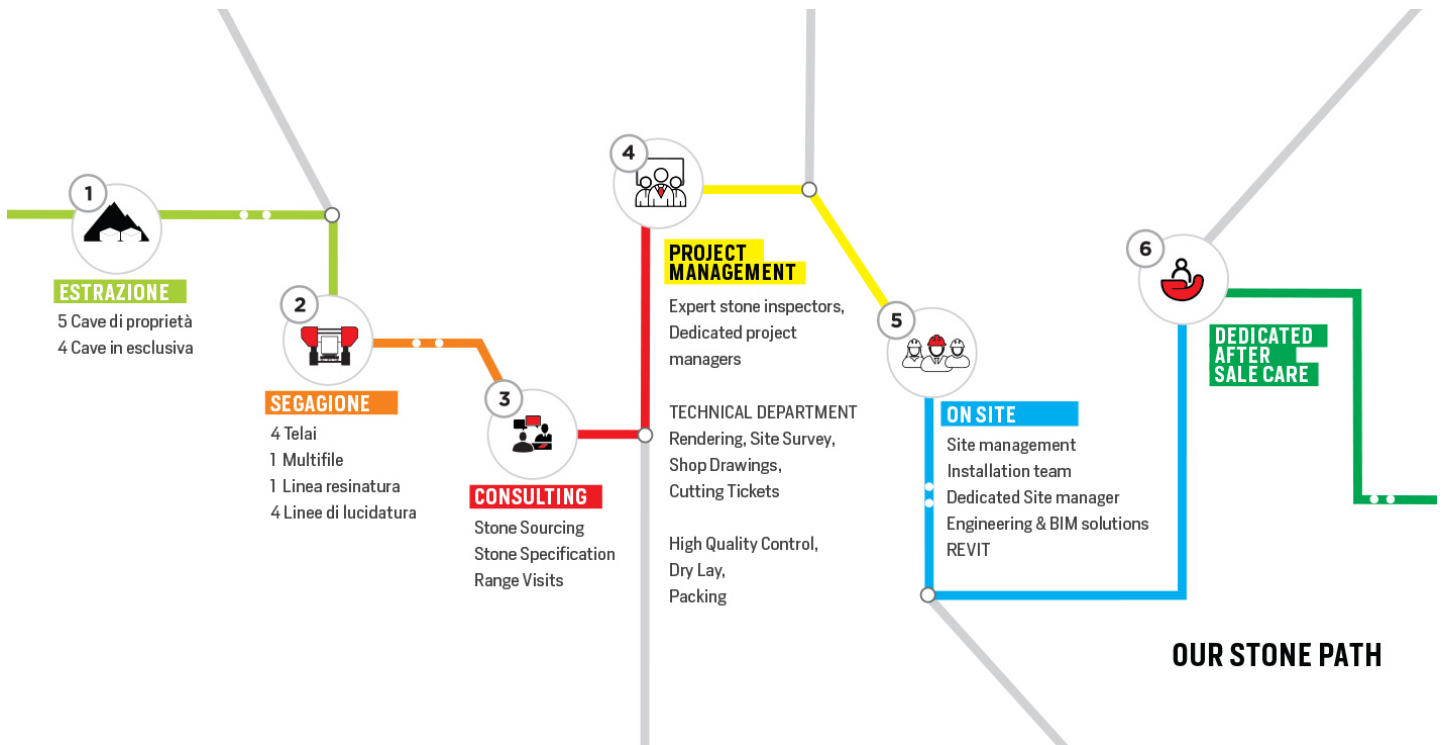

Universally renowned for its versatility and endurance, Moleanos marble may be used in exterior facings applications, curtain walls, decorative objects for public use and interior design elements as floorings, marble stairs, fireplaces facings, elegants kitchens and bathrooms.
